

<Your organization name> joins RTD for Zero Fare for Youth program

<Your organization name> and the Regional Transportation District \(RTD\) are excited to partner on Zero Fare for Youth, an initiative designed to encourage transit usage for a new generation of riders. Now a permanent program, youth ages 19 and under can enjoy the convenience of riding RTD services at no cost by simply presenting a valid student or government-issued ID. A full list of acceptable ID is available at the Zero Fare for Youth webpage.

Using public transportation can lead to substantial cost savings, enabling families and students to allocate their resources more efficiently. Transit also enhances mobility, increases accessibility and encourages independence and flexibility.

Transit can, of course, be used for daily commutes to school and work, but RTD also provides services that make connections to entertainment and sports venues, popular shopping and restaurants for a well-rounded and diverse transit experience for young customers. By reducing the need for private vehicles, public transit offers a safe and convenient solution to get customers where they need to go.
